Dear Update:

Isn't there some utility program available on Q-Link that will make converting arced and compacted files easier? I seem to remember hearing about one last winter, but haven't been able to locate it.

Ryan,
Sacramento, CA

You are thinking of Q-Link's Omega-Q file, available in the CIN Software Libraries in both the Q-Link Utilities section and the Download Help and Information area. Omega-Q, created by Q-Link member Malakai, performs the most often used disk operation in just a few easy steps, including "unsqueezing" or dissolving files so they are ready to use.

This single utility file combines nearly all of the incompatible archiving utilities and simplifies the programs for easy operation. You can also use Omega-Q for formatting disk set-up, loading programs, reading disk directories and a variety of other disk "housekeeping" duties.

Dear Update:

For over six months now I have tried, in vain, to re-establish screen names that I used a year ago. I wouldn't mind if it was just a matter of someone else thinking of them and using them. The problem is that they show up as "already in use" or "not a valid Q-Link name." What's going on?

Shadowfane,
Albion, MI

Consider the value of your screen names carefully before giving them up: once a name has been deleted, it cannot be reactivated. This is to avoid confusion between two members who might create exactly the same name in a short period of time and be mistaken for each other.

You might consider trying to establish a similar screen name to the one you want by varying the spelling — Crazy4You, for instance, could be spelled Krazy4You or Crazie4Yu. It's not only a solution to your problem, but creative as well!

Inside Customer Relations:

by Lori-Ellen Anderson

Vote for the Winner of our "Customer Delight" Award!

Efforts to maintain our high standard of quality customer relations have resulted in our new Customer Relations Department (CRD) Awards program! Each month, three awards are given to Representatives who show outstanding performance in one or more of the following areas: "Customer Delight", "Teamwork", and "Above and Beyond the Call of Duty" (The ABCD Award).

Co-workers, through a voting system, determine the last two awards but it's you, the customer, who chooses the winner of the "Customer Delight" award! When you receive a delightful solution to a problem, or outstanding help from one of our Representatives, don't be shy to let us know just who it was that helped you!

Send your comments and votes via E-Mail to the screen name "JoeDyer", our Vice-President of Customer Relations. Your mail will help us determine which of our Representatives will receive next month's award. We look forward to hearing from you about how we're doing!

Flyin' Fingers!

Look at them go! Yes, the fingers of our Customer Representatives literally fly across their keyboards to answer questions and concerns that you post on the message boards of the Customer Service Center. Each day the messages from the online Service Center boards are printed out, and we work hard to make sure that you receive your answers within 24 hours!

Printing out the message board posting works best for us, because it allows us to research your concern and provide you with more detailed and complete answers. The Customer Service Center message boards are part of your Basic service, so feel free to ask your questions — we're more than willing to help!

First Called, First Served!

To further help us provide quality service, your phone calls to Customer Relations are routed to Representatives using an Automatic Call-Distribution (ACD) phone system.

Simply put, this means that as each call comes in, the ACD system automatically routes that call to the next available Representative, ensuring that your question is answered in the shortest time possible!

Service with Style

To keep up with recent technical developments and new service offerings, all Q-Link Representatives receive regular "brush-up" training to ensure that we can serve you better and pass the latest information on to you — that's our reason for being here! Don't ever be hesitant to let us know what you think!

The VIQ Club - A People Place

by Will Jarred

Will Jarred has been a Q-Link Customer Relations Representative for more than a year. In addition to performing his usual duties as part of our top-notch Customer Relations team, Will recently acted as stage manager for the Talent Show at the Q-Link Summer Bash.

And, for the past six months, he's been VIQ REP, the Customer Relations Representative dedicated to dealing with the concerns of our VIQs (Very Important Q-Linkers). Below, he offers some insights into that job.

"What are the benefits of being a VIQ?"

As the VIQ REP, I am often asked that question by VIQ Club members and non-members alike. Though there are certainly specific advantages in becoming a VIQ (advanced notice and testing of new products, special merchandise offers, status in an exclusive club, etc...) my response to this question is threefold: People, People, and People!

With any club, the whole is only as great as the sum of its parts. It doesn't take much math though to figure out that the members of the VIQ Club are the driving force behind its success. It's been my experience that the VIQs are the warmest, wildest, wackiest bunch of people on Q-Link. Their ideas and suggestions have contributed greatly to the VIQ Club's future as the premiere club for Q-Link enthusiasts.

I look forward each day to reading and responding to the witty comments of the members who frequently use the VIQ hotline for their questions. Questions range from "Where is my order?" to "Are you single?" (sorry, married 2 years and counting...;) and a day never goes by that XXADAMXX doesn't leave me ROTF (rolling on the floor) with a comment or question.

The VIQ Club is unique in part because the majority of its 1,300 members have been online since Q-Link's early days. This has created a real senseof "family" among the VIQ membership, which is refreshing considering the growth of the service in the past two years. When reading the Back Fence, a VIQ message board, I am always impressed with the fondness and sense of humor that the VIQs express toward each other.

As a group, their commitment and dedication is unparalleled; one example of this commitment is EdwardS37, VIQ Club Host. With the help of several volunteers, Ed has put together an impressive list of events and entertainment designed especially for the varying interests of the VIQ membership.

Activities include "The Sunday Event", hosted by Asphyx; "Trivia Trap", hosted by AlanM227; and the talk of the town, "Iris' Bar and Grill," which opens each Tuesday and Thursday evening with (you guessed it) the lovely Iris as the host. If you are lucky, you may even find Grbblb in the Lounge with his darling Pitt Bulls! Ed has put a tremendous amount of his spare time into making the VIQ Club an exciting place, and the schedule is continuing to grow each month!

The most exciting element of the Club is that, with the addition of new members on a daily basis, it's constantly evolving. Since I started as VIQ REP, many changes have taken place....A Post Office was added to the main menu for easy access, several areas were made Basic services, and the ever popular VIQ Roster was created.

Want to join the fun? It's easy! All you have to do to become a member of the VIQ Club is accumulate 50,000 unspent Q-Pons, either from using the system regularly or winning Q-Pons in Q-Link contests and giveaways. Once you are in the club, you will have access to a variety of message boards, a lounge where you can chat with other VIQ Members, a Sneak Peeks board, which will keep you on the cutting edge of all new services and promotions, and best of all, you will have access to your own customer service representative, ME !

So come join in the fun and be part of the action. If you are already a VIQ Club member, check out the Schedule of Events in the Lounge and participate in some of the hottest events online (there are door prizes for the lucky one's)! If you are not a VIQ, enter those online contests and giveaways so you can join up soon. Who knows? Maybe you will be the next VIQ Of The Month!

Solve a Crime of Unnatural Resources:

Poor, rich Mr. Charles Thorndyke, President of Lifelong Bank & Trust, has been murdered! A terrible fire in his bank building ended his life...but police suspect that foul play was involved. Was the fire accidental?

Authorities think not, since a half-destroyed appointment book, stained with blood, was found at the desk of Thorndyke's "loyal" secretary, Karina White, in the burned building. And more importantly, Thorndyke was found stabbed!

Now, "Butler M," Thorndyke's devoted servant for nearly fifty years, invites you to an exclusive Murder Mystery Party to help solve this heinous crime.

Here's how the Party will work:

Join "Butler M" in the THORNDYKE MURDER room in People Connection at 10 p.m. on Sunday, August 13, when he will hold auditions for 'Linkers who want to become characters in the Murder Mystery Party's crime reenactment. All characters will be considered suspects in the atrocious murder (check online in the Murder We Wrote area of Just For Fun's QSociety for character insights and complete details!).

Each 'Linker selected to portray a character will be awarded one free online hour to convene in the Auditorium at 9 p.m. on Sunday, August 20 to reenact the night of Thorndyke's death. You can help take a byte out of crime by questioning the characters, each of whom might have murdered the unsuspecting Thorndyke!

If you are one of the sleuths who helps us uncover the "bitter truth" about the "Unnatural Resources" that did in Thorndyke, you could take home a reward of free online hours or an official How to Host a Murder game from Intuitive Marketing.

Good luck, Sherlocks!

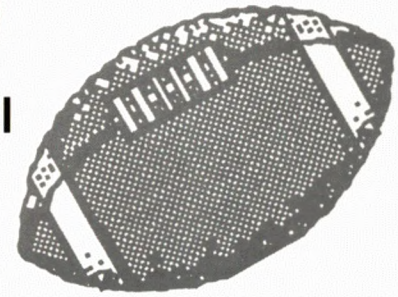
The Ref Wants YOU To Manage A Grandstand Football Team



Informational Meeting Thursday, August 3

Have you ever wanted to call the shots for your own NFL football team? You can! Find out how to be a team franchise owner at the informational meeting of the Grandstand Football League at 10:00 p.m. on Thursday, August 3 in the People Connection Auditorium.

Grandstand Football teams are based on the play of your favorite NFL stars. As a franchise owner you'll use NFL statistics to draft a team, set a starting lineup and make trades and free agent pick-ups. Keep an eye on those injury reports — should you take a chance on a rookie, or stick with a veteran player who might not be up to snuff?

After you choose a team from the NFL's rosters, your players' actual NFL performances will determine your team's GFL standings. When one of your players scores in his real National Football League game, your team gets those points.

Using this method throughout the 14-game schedule, team records are established and rivalries intensify as the season continues. The fantasy team that wins the playoffs earns its owner free Plus hours!

How to Join the GFL

You can get all the information you need to start and manage your own fantasy football team at the informational meeting on August 3.

The official GFL draft will follow; after that, league teams will meet weekly to compare their teams' standings. Complete league rules and registration guidelines are online in the Fantasy Football League area of The Grandstand's Fifty-Yard Line.

Make The Fifty-Yard Line your football headquarters this fall! You'll find pigskin news, statistics, and message boards filled with facts and opinions about the hottest football action.

Gear up for football mania! The season is just around the corner, and The Grandstand and Fifty-Yard Line will help you make the most of it!

Get the Scoop on Issac Asmiov's Science Fiction Magazine Aug. 24

Meet Charles Ardai of Issac Asimov's Science Fiction Magazine on Thursday, August 24 at 10 p.m. in People Connection's Auditorium. He'll be on hand to answer your questions about the magazine, Issac Asimov and the science fiction world.

Issac Asimov, one of the premier science fiction authors of our time, now makes his monthly editorial from Issac Asimov 's Science Fiction Magazine available to Q-Link members!

That's right — even if you're not a current subscriber to the magazine, you'll be able to enjoy the wit and foresight of this award-winning science fiction master each month in Just For Fun's Fiction & Fantasy Club. Issac Asimov's monthly editorial appears on Q-Link the same time the magazine hits the newsstand. And if you like what you read, you can find out how to subscribe to Issac Asimov's Science Fiction Magazine in the same place — the Science Fiction area of Fiction & Fantasy.

Q-Link Summer Bash Draws 400 Q-Linkers — Whatta Party!

When Q-Link's members get together for a summer party in the nation's capital, they do it up right! More than 400 Q-Linkers descended on the D.C. metropolitan area near Quantum headquarters for the Q-Link Hometown Bash and Talent Show on June 24.

The attendees were welcomed by Executive President Steve Case, and saw demonstrations of Club Caribe and a brand new music product that will debut on Q-Link soon. Then, it was on to the talent portion of the night, where members and staffers alike sang, danced, and made merry to the delight (and sometimes embarrassment) of the audience.

The Talent Show was the idea of Brett Zucker, the winner of our "Create a Party Contest." Brett, who's known online as TeamsUSA, and his parents flew in for the Q-Link Bash from New York courtesy of American Airlines, providers of the EAAsy Sabre Travel Service found in Q-Link's The Mall.

The talent show was followed by a dance, food, drink, and lots of meetings between members who had only talked online before that night. Like they say, a picture's worth a thousand words!

Save Time and Money With Library Searches

Interested in Elvis songs? Programming patches? Sports games? Whatever your interests are, you can now search for the specific programs you want quickly and easily using the Q-Link Library Search System.

Until recently, you needed to browse through the various software libraries one at a time or search through your Q-Link Public Domain Software Directory. But it's possible that Elvis songs, for instance, could be spread throughout many of the Music Room Libraries. To find the newest files uploaded, you needed to browse through each library individually.

But the easy-to-use library search system, which was an immediate hit on Q-Link when it debuted in June, lets you search all the files in a specific set of libraries for a word or set of words you choose. You can request a search of the newest files uploaded to Q-Link, or quickly locate the files you want from the more than 25,000 public domain files available in our Software Libraries!

The search system looks in four places to find the words you key in to start your search. It will look for a match in the Subject, Filename, and Uploader name areas that are part of every file online.

The fourth area the system searches is a set of keywords assigned to each library. For instance, the disk utilities library is assigned the words "disk," "utility" and "application." A list of these common keywords is available in the Sample Keywords list in the About Searching Libraries area.

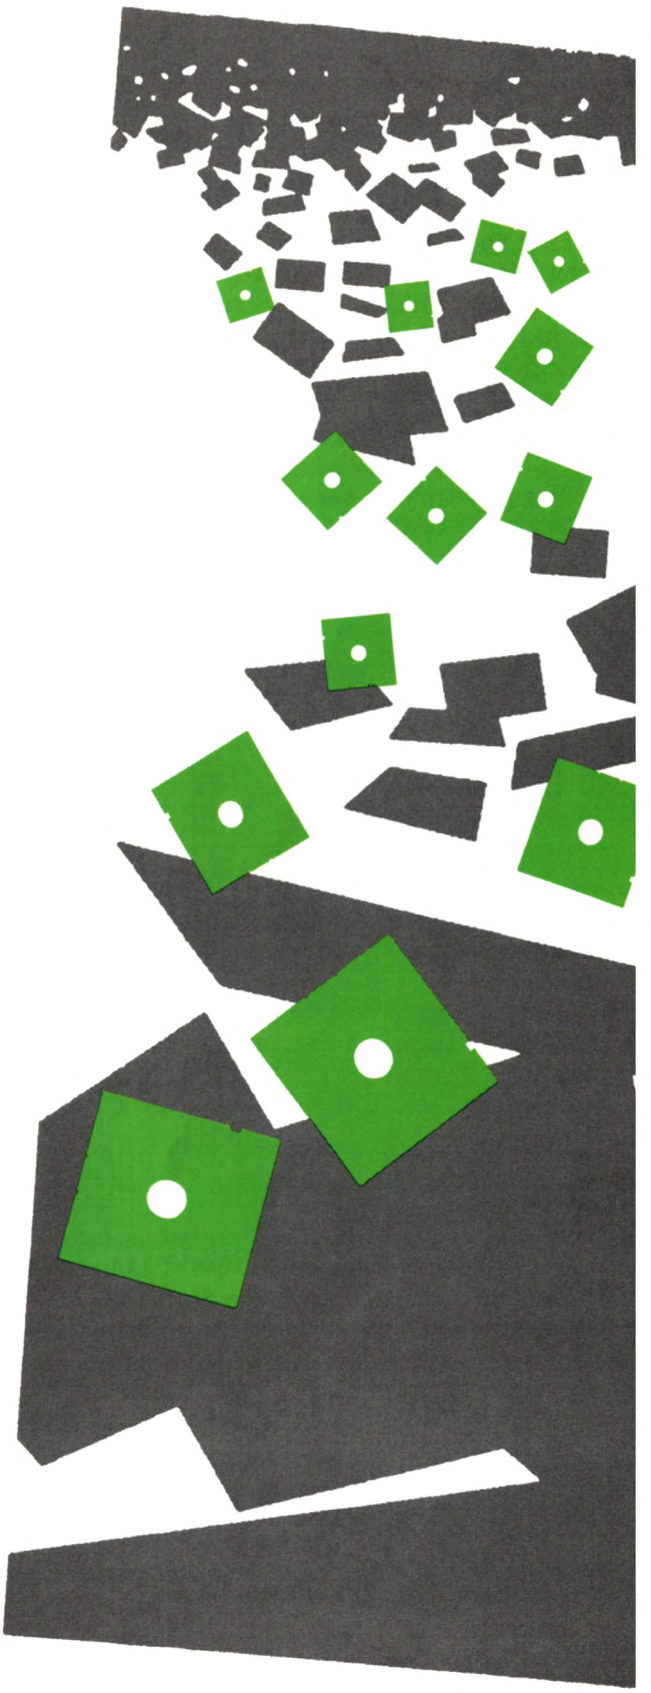
The search system can display up to 28 files, so it's to your advantage to narrow your search as much as possible. The more specific your request, the better your chance of succeeding in your search. You can accomplish this by using more than one word when you search.

How to Use the Library Search System

Your search for files that interest you begins when you enter the Search the Libraries area of the Software Libraries. First, choose the search area based on the computer and operating system you want to use the files with. You can request a search for C64, C128, GEOS, CP/M, Amiga, and Educational files by choosing one of those categories from the main search menu. Then you have the option of searching either the entire library or just the files that have been added to the libraries during the last week or month.

Now it's time to come up with your search phrase. Think of a series of words that describe the type of files you want to look at. The best way to build such a phrase is to start with words that generally describe the category of files you want, then work toward more specific descriptive words.

For example, the search phrase "word game" will search for files that have both "word" and "game" in the subject description or filename. Type in your phrase, press the return key, and wait for the system to respond. If the library search finds more than 28 files that fit that description, it will tell you how many files it has found and instruct you to please use more specific search words. Searching for "word game unscramble" narrows your search enough that you will receive a list of files. Just move the checkmark to a program and press the F1 key to read the file description. If you find one you like, just press F7 for the download menu!



Use "Or," and "Not" To Narrow Your Searches

One easy way to expand and narrow your searches is to use the words "or" and "not" in your search phrase. Using "or" will allow you to find files which contain one or both of two specified words; for instance, requesting "word game unscramble or scramble" will expand your search to include either type of puzzle.

"OR"

The word "not" is used to narrow a search — typing in "scramble not games" turns up two files that contain the word "scramble", neither of which is a game.

"AND"

The word "And" in your search phrase can be used to link the words in the phrase, but it's generally understood by the system that "and" is part of the word search, and using the search phrase "word and game and unscramble" would net you the same result as the example you started with above.

"NOT"

Remember, you can search the libraries for uploader name, too, and you can mix an uploader's name with the specific kind of file you want. Type in the words "Eric and MIDI," and you'll get a list of all the files contributed by that uploader for use with the Musical Instrument Digital Interface!

The Library Search System is easy to use, and puts the files you want most right at your fingertips. Complete details on using the Library Search System, and a list of sample keywords, are available in the Software Libraries area of the Commodore Information Network and Commodore Software Showcase.

Just choose the Search the Libraries option on the Software Libraries menu, and use Q-Link's Library Search System to make the most of the CIN and Showcase Software Libraries!

More Hints and Tips on Using the Library Search System

There are a number of tricks you can use to successfully use Q-Link's Library Search System. Keep the following thoughts in mind when creating your search phrases to find the public domain files you want:

- Search words must be at least three characters in length.
- If your search results in too many files being found to be listed, use the "New This Week" and "New This Month" options to narrow your search. When using these options, you can press your return key without a search phrase and receive a count or list of all the files that have been added during that time frame.
- When searching for files from a particular uploader, always include any spaces that appear in their screen name- look for "SYSOP SR", not "SYSOPSR."
- It doesn't matter whether you use upper or lowercase letters when conducting your search, so don't spend time and energy replicating upper and lowercase combinations in names.
- Numbers are ignored by the search system unless they have a decimal point or letter/number combination, such as "1.3" or "C64."
- You can add the asterisk (*) symbol to your search phrase and confine your search to files recommended by the CIN SysOps. The asterisk symbol appears in the file subject lines of the SysOp's favorite files, and putting the symbol in your search will pull only these designated files.

It's Here! Order Your 1989-90 Q-Link Software Directory Today!

Comprehensive Listing of 25,000 Programs

The wait is over — now you can own the Q-Link 1989-90 Public Domain Software Directory, which lists the contents of all the public domain software in the Commodore Information Network and Commodore Software Showcase Software Libraries. For just $14.95, it makes locating the files you want to download a snap!

The Q-Link Public Domain Software Directory makes downloading quicker and easier by allowing you to browse through the Software Libraries offline. It's nearly twice the size of the 1988 Edition, with information on over 25,000 public domain files available on Q-Link.

Information on each file includes its subject heading (in bold lettering), the filename, the name of the person who uploaded the file, and the date the file was uploaded. Chapters are divided into the same categories as the online libraries, and the files are listed under each category in alphabetical order by subject heading.

For example, if you are looking for an arcade game for your C128, check the Table of Contents for "C128 Software" and find the chapter titled "Game Room." Under that chapter, find the category called "Arcade." Under Arcade, you will find additional subdivisions such as Strategy, and all of the "Strategy" game files will be listed there in alphabetical order. Scan down through the page until you find a subject heading that interests you. Choose the files you want and use the new search option online to get your programs fast!

In addition to the public domain files in the general Software Libraries area of CIN and the Showcase, the Software Directory also includes all the files of the GEOS Arena, Special Edition Software, Software Publisher and Education Software Libraries.

Q-Link's Software Library Search System and 1989-90 Software Directory — two great tools that help you locate and download more than 25,000 software files!

You can order your Q-Link 1989-90 Public Domain Software Directory online in The Mall's Q-Link Store and in the Commodore Information Network for $14.95 (it's available to VIQs in the VIQ Store for a 20% discount). With the Software Directory and Q-Link's Software Library Search System, you've got what it takes to become a power software downloader!

More To Do On Q...

NEW! Take a Personal Growth Course in the Learning Center

Want to work on a personal skill or improve some aspect of your social life? If you do, Q-Link can help! The Learning Center now offers a number of unusual, informative and entertaining courses in personal development that can help you make the most of life's opportunities. These two-session classes can help you stop smoking, start or end a relationship, and stop procrastinating!

As the medical evidence grows and cities pass laws against smoking, it becomes less acceptable to light up when and where you want to. Learn how to curb your desire for cigarettes at our Stop Smoking course. Sheldon Leonard, Director of the Georgetown Hypnosis Clinic, will help you find out why you smoke and why willpower alone won't help you quit. Find out how you can join the successful legion of non-smokers! The course begins Monday, August 7 at 9 p.m., and the $15 registration fee includes a tape you can use to keep the urge to smoke under control when the course ends.

It's easy to put off until tomorrow what you should do today, and maybe you've told yourself you'll stop doing that ... someday soon. Attend the Learning Center's Procrastination Seminar, and you learn to stop delaying your personal and professional projects. Make the most of your time sooner than "someday" — the course begins Wednesday, August 9 at 9 p.m.

Looking to improve your social life? Discover the Secrets of Flirting! Katherine Reiter, a behavioral psychologist, clues you in to expanding your social circle, recognizing subtle signals from members of the opposite sex, and using your intuitive skills to transform everyday encounters into fun and romance! The two-session course is just $12, and could lead to something ... exciting!

If you need a fresh start of a different kind, find out How to Leave Your Lover (And Move On). Seize your chance to get past the sense of loss that accompanies an ended romance or life crisis. The course offers guidelines on assessing your current status, coping with disappointment, and moving on to bigger and better things.

More information on these and other courses, the class fees and meeting times is available in the Learning Center's Personal Growth Courses area on the main menu. Find out more about personal growth courses tonight, and take charge of your future!
